BUILDERS RAP LUMBER FIRM COMPETITIONS

Contracting Field Is Widely Entered By Lumber Concerns

By unanimous action the Richmond builders Exchange last night endorsed the resolution read at the state building conference held at Santa Cruz, September 25, condemning the practice of lumbering firms who are held to have entered the contracting field causing unfair discrimination to the contractors themselves. The resolution as read is as follows:

HELD UNFAIR

"Whereas, in the past, legitimate contractors and subcontractors and material dealers have been subjected to unfair competition by firms principally operating as lumber yards and mills, which firms bid on construction work against others whose sole occupations are construction work or selling of construction material, and

"Whereas, this practice permits such lumber and mill concerns to use undercover figures on materials and mill and other work to the disadvantage of legitimate concerns, and

"Whereas, such concerns are attempting by such competition to promote day labor work which is detrimental to the contracting system:

"Therefore, be it resolved that the state building exchange does condemn the practices named above."

This resolution has been endorsed by the Santa Clara building exchange and will be presented before the state building conference.

Best Dinner Ever Eaten Told

John Moore Expatiates

John Moore, Richmond attorney, has a vivid recollection of the best dinner he ever tucked away with signs of satisfaction. He related it yesterday while his eyes filled with the mist of pleasant memories.

"About five years ago," Moore began with a certain air of condescension, "I was in Los Angeles, and had been invited to attend dinner in Long Beach, that was represented to be a pip. I was considerably younger at that time and eating was not a diversion for me—it was almost a business.

Here Moore deviated from the tale at hand to expand upon the enormous quantities of food he ate in his pleasure to consume at one time, taking evident pleasure in the "oh's" and "ah's" of the listener.

"Well, to get back to the story," Moore proceeded with a little embarrassment. "He had just claimed that at one time he ate two whole chickens, half a cake, and a tureen of soup." "I travelled to Long Beach, a distance of about 20 miles with every intention of making the natives sit back in awe-struck wonder at my gastronomical abilities.

"I arrived in the city, and suddenly became so ill that I thought of calling at least five specialists. But I had eaten a dinner a short time before that took all of my ready cash, and I reconciled myself to an early death.

"I took my stomach to task with every means at my disposal but I entered the dining room of the hotel where the dinner was given, a sick man.

"The odor of that dinner began to come to me, and I knew the representations that had been made of its excellence were not exaggerated.

"I brought my hand down on the table vigorously, mentally swearing that I would eat everything put before me, if it killed me. In pounding the table I overturned a glass of ice water which doused my knees. It felt good on my knees, why not inside."

When Colonel Lindberg made his flight across the Atlantic, William Anderson of 322 Thirtieth street acquired an air-dale puppy. He named him "Lucky Lindy."

Now he believes that there is something in a name.

When Bill returned from the DeMolay election Wednesday night he found all the doors in the basement and garage of his home wide open. Investigation showed that a prowler had attempted to gain entrance to the home and "Lucky Lindy," although still a puppy, showed his courage by attacking the prowler and driving him away. Anderson found his dog one block from home. And the house had not been entered.

A DESERVED HONOR

Most of the reference books omit or give a scant attention to the name, station and record of Walter Kittredge, who wrote that sweet old ballad entitled, "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground." But New Hampshire has remembered Kittredge and has dedicated a memorial tablet to him. For he was a native of New Hampshire and here is one case in which there is furnished an exception to the saying that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Many great singers and great songs were produced by that inffably bloody conflict which we call the Civil War. "Tenting Tonight" was one of the great songs of that period, embodying the lofty idealism of a real poet who perceived the pathos and longing and regret of human conflict. Yet, while most of us know the song, very, very few of us are acquainted with its author. New Hampshire has done the whole nation a real service in dedicating a memorial tablet to Walter Kittredge whose work would, even in the absence of a moment, have lived forever.

Just why Aimee Semple McPherson should wish to dress up herself and her gospel troupe in the uniform of the United States Navy is not readily understood by the normal mind, but if it goes through and there is any sense of the appropriate in the organization Mrs. McPherson's own uniform will be that of a radio operator.

Soviet Russia has sent forth a woman ambassador. Now Nicaragua sends to San Diego, California, a woman consul. If Secretary Kellogg is still subject to those nervous spells which were so upsetting him a short time back he may see something dreadful in this coincidence.

If all the advice being handed auto drivers was enacted into law the volume would be a big one but a little good horse sense on the part of the drivers would cover the entire field and leave nothing to be said. — Crawfordville.

Mussolini says he is going to have an army of 5,000,000. Other Roman emperors have dreamed thus, only to find that when the army got big enough it decided to elect its own boss. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IN OUR OFFICE

Vigorous Health

I am suffering with nervous exhaustion and have difficulty in sleeping. Would you advise a hot bath before going to bed? What special treatments are of value?

MRS. ACRON.

When one is suffering with nervous exhaustion one needs rest more than anything else. Consequently, treatments should be kept at a minimum, as treatments only do good when one has the nervous energy to react. Hot baths are energizing and should be avoided in such a condition. The practice of mental and of physical relaxation will help to induce sleep and will be of much value in other ways. If something else seems to be required, a neutral bath at 98 degrees may be employed. Internal rest is important, as well as external and a fruit diet for a few days is therefore very helpful. Sun baths are taken whenever possible, as they are a direct source of energy.

In reading your column the other day I noticed you recommend progressive fasting. Just what do you mean by this and how does it differ from the ordinary fast?

CARL D.

Fasting is only done in one way. However, what you call ordinary fasting consists of only one or perhaps two periods of abstinence, continuing each one as long as seems necessary for the particular condition. Progressive fasting is a definite series of fasts, starting with one day and increasing one day at a time up to ten or fourteen days. The length of the eating periods between fasts varies somewhat, but the easiest plan is to eat as many weeks as there were days in the preceding fast. The idea of progressive fasting is to gradually cleanse the system and to create an increasing demand for more and better tissue and function.

One of the prettiest hats I seen set seen in many a day is made of a new hand woven material—wool on taffeta. The hat is a Russian-like turban; the scarf a long narrow strip to be worn in high dog collar fashion. And there's a novel pouch handbag in this same unique material.

What Your FACE TELLS

Oct. 1927 by Betty Morrison Psy.D.

MISS ROSEBUD LIPS IS JEALOUS—BUT REFINED!

What a sweet little rosebud mouth to kiss! Who could help in adoring it? But boys, before you decide that there's only one such in the world for you, hear the story which this lovely little mouth tells. You may just as well know the worst—and make the best of it!

Somewhat a little Cupid's bow like this is the delight of beauty lovers. So, if you are marrying just for looks you won't go wrong in picking a girl with this small, pretty mouth. But, when it comes to temper—that's different. The girl with a mouth like this will be quick to grow angry. She will also be quick to argue and find fault. She is extremely vain, selfish, suspicious, secretive and jealous.

If you marry her, you must never clerk at a soda fountain or any other place where you'll wait on the ladies. This girl will be very sensitive and will be jealous if you merely say: "Chocolate or vanilla cream?" providing your customer is a girl under 80.

But she is not all bad. This little rosebud mouth tells another pretty story. A girl with a mouth like this is refined. She dislikes loud, coarse surroundings, common ordinary conversation, and seeks associations with the highest class. She is a nature lover, loves beauty in all its forms. She will cherish loveliness in her home and will do her part in keeping a house in charming order.

She is inclined to be artistic.

SYNOPSIS
In 186 Bob, son of Hank, Armstrong, a family known for his father's hatred of machines, is secretly inventing gasoline engines and openly courting Rose Robbins. Hank, who has his son because of his love for automobiles, Rose intervenes, but Bob decides to leave home. Rose promises to wait for him. Steven Bentley, Bob's rival, proposes to Rose, but she refuses him. This added to a thrashing Bob gave him, angers Steven. Bob, who has allowed his business to decay, Bill posters an announcement automobile races with the "Red Demon" driving. Steve recognizes Bob as the "Red Demon" and plans a plan.

Rose sees the change in Hank's attitude. She reaches her hand over the gate and caught him, drawing him closer to her.

"His address is care of the Hayes Motor Company," she continued, smiling.

Hank jumped away from Rose's restraining hand. He stared at her for a moment uncomprehending.

Then, as her words sank in, he threw his head back; his body stiffened; he drew himself proudly.

"No son of mine will be a man in amazement. Then he yelled again, threateningly. But the brush continued to move as before. Galled by what he believed was the man's indifference, Hank rushed into his now-delapidated office.

Steve stood still staring at the bill poster, unable to understand why the man had made no reply to Hank's outburst. But as he turned to look towards the door where Hank had disappeared he saw the horseman approaching, shotgun in hand.

Hank stopped outside the stable entrance, held his gun in readiness, and yelled again at the bill poster.

The old man turned at the sound, and put his hand behind his ear as though to facilitate his hearing.

But as he saw Hank with the leveled gun he gave a scream, turned, staggered over his paste bucket, scrambled to his feet and bolted down the street as though he were pursued by demons.

As the old man ran out of sight Hank stalked over to the poster, and stared at it again. Steve, by this time, had moved over toward the fence where he could watch the other man's movements, and still not be in particular evidence. But Hank was too intent on the sign to give any thought to anyone or anything else. He threw his shotgun in the ground. Then he reached up with his hands and tore the still damp paper from its hanging. With his nails he clawed the very wood trying to remove the last vestige of the hateful picture.

"I love Bob," she said softly, almost to herself, "and, after all, his father is only the victim of mistaken ideals."

Steve, irritated by her remark, guffawed loudly and scathingly. At this sound Rose turned abruptly, and then she realized with whom she had been talking.

"Why," she said, "you're a charming family, the Armstrongs," she snickered. "So courteous."

Rose, stunned by Hank's attitude, scarcely noticed who was standing beside the gate. She was so absorbed in her own reflections that Steve's remark meant little save that someone had mentioned the name of Armstrong.

MONTE BLUE IN STARRING ROLE AT CALIFORNIA

In Warner Bros. production, "Wolf's Clothing," starring Monte Blue, Roy Del Ruth, the director, has conspired with the cameraman to re-create on the screen the dazzling glory of New Year's Eve on Broadway.

The action of the picture consumes but sixteen hours—New Year's Eve and the famous morning after. It relates the adventures of a young subway guard and a pretty society girl, both out for a wild night club party. They start out independently to have a good time, but before the evening is hardly begun, they have met and are in love. Six hours later, they are married aboard a rum runner, by the Captain who is forced to perform the ceremony at the muzzle of a gun.

Roy Del Ruth pictures Broadway on the maddest, merriest night of the year, when the street of a million lights is in gala attire. Crowds of roysters are speeding the Old Year and welcoming the New. Symbolical figures add to the splendor of the scene, and the grand Ball Room of one of New York's most exclusive hotels is shown at the height of the revelry when serpentine and confetti are swirling, and thousands of gay balloons shower from the ceilings and balconies over dancing or dining guests. "Wolf's Clothing," D. F. Zanuck's production of the famous mystery story by Arthur Somers Roche, comes to the California theatre today for a run of two days. Lovely Patsy Ruth Miller is featured in support of the star. Douglas Gerrard and J. Miljan are also members of the cast.

Other features on the same program include Berdroux's Golden Gate Orchestra, from the Winter Garden Ballroom, appearing at 7:45 p. m. only tonight and every Friday night; and another story of the famous "Collegians" entitled "Winning Five," featuring George Lewis; "Snapshtos," International News; and Larry Caneo, at the organ.

HORSE FIGHTS LOSING BATTLE AT RICHMOND

The somewhat one-sided battle between the automobile and the horse is depicted in a whimsically humorous manner in "The Sunset Derby," the First National picture featuring William Collier, Jr., and Mary Astor, currently showing at the Richmond Theatre here.

The various societies of the First Presbyterian church here have been actively engaged in sewing and preparing other items for their booth at the bazaar. Many novel features and new concessions have been provided for the entertainment of the public. Several prominent Richmond merchants are co-operating in making the event successful by urging the citizens of Richmond to attend the festival. These merchants are:

Alberts, LaMoine Drug Stores, Carquinez Flower shop and the Mechanics Bank.

ference in Pasadena, October 24-25.

UNIFORM CODE NEEDED

The necessity of a uniform building code for California was stressed by A. C. Horner, manager of the western division of the National Lumbermen's association.

"It is wholly impractical," Horner declared, "for cities to inaugurate separate building codes which do not take into account the disadvantages incumbent in them.

Contractors and sub-contractors are at a great disadvantage by having to cope with codes which apply only in one city, and which will be found to be entirely different in another city a few miles away.

The uniform code is the only solution to the problem.

Speaking also on the "Conservation of Lumber" Horner informed the builders of the exchange that a national educational campaign is now under way on the uses of wood. This campaign has been made necessary by the great roads that have been made into the province of lumber by other construction materials.

EXPLAINS HOUSING ACT

The provisions of the Housing Act were explained by Robert Greig, director of housing for the state of California. The contents of the act which was passed some years ago are little known.

KOCK SPEAKER

S. P. Kock, Berkeley building inspector spoke on the subject, "Relationship Between the Building Inspector and the Contractor."

Cooperation between the two was emphasized as fundamentally important by the speaker.

P. M. SANFORD

P. M. Sanford, past president of the Richmond builders exchange and recently elected president of the state builders exchange was congratulated upon his election by A. J. Hurley, in behalf of the exchange.

OUTLINES POLICY

Sanford outlined his policy for the term, stating that he believed it necessary that the state exchange should be much stronger than it now is. Sanford will first preside as head of the state exchange at the Pasadena conference, October 24-25, where it is believed that the need of appropriate legislation for exchange purposes will be stressed. A large number of members of the Richmond exchange will be in attendance to give their support, it was announced.

Dinner was served the exchange at 6:30 by the Cathelen Coffee shop. A variety of entertainment was introduced during the banquet.

Herbert Stanton accompanied Miss Betty Kelly, of Oakland, at the piano, during several pleasant vocal selections, and Captain Ernest Howard, of the Richmond Fire Department, gave selections that were well received.

In charge of the evening, A. J. Hurley was assisted by the following committees:

Banquet, W. D. Rihm, plumbing contractor; R. A. Washburn, plumbing contractor; Casper Pedersen, of Peersen Bros; entertainment committee; Herbert A. Stanton, C. E. Reese, of the Cowell Cement company; Earl W. Smith, of the Conceal Fixture company; Chris Christensen, of the Cobble-Ribke Glass company; Decoration committee, Fred C. Hosking, general contractor; George Edwards, of the Pioneer Electric company, and R. Johnson, of the Richmond Hardware company.

How Safe are Safes?

A quarter of a century ago iron safes in the home or office were believed to afford a fair measure of protection for personal possessions. Today, however, such safes are easily looted. Science has surrounded the bank safe deposit vault with devices and protective systems that set at naught the best efforts of the most highly-skilled cracksmen.

The American Trust Company vaults are of the highest type of fire and burglar-proof construction. Within these impregnated vaults may be rented safe deposit boxes of convenient and varying sizes at a cost of $3.00 a year and upward. NEPTUNE WINS FROM RICHMOND BY CLOSE SCORE

SPEEDY SWIMS MARK EVENTS AT CITY POOL

The Richmond men's swimming team lost the dual meet with Neptune last night in the municipal natatorium by the close score of 36 to 32. The winning of the Relay race, the last event on the program, lost the meet to Richmond as they were ahead of their rivals until that event.

Richmond was crippled by the absence of Eckberry who was forced to leave the city on a business trip. Sundman was prevented from winning first in the 100-yard back stroke event by a non-contest swimmer crossing his path and stopping him. As it was he finished second.

In spite of the handicaps, the Richmond team piled up a large score and feel that they will be able to beat Neptune at the return meet on October 9 at Neptune beach.

Hard Work Is Drug Of Life Says France's War Premier

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Hard work offers the best means of keeping life interesting, Georges Clemenceau, "Tiger" of France, told Universal Service tonight as he quietly celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday.

France's war Premier dined alone in a room filled with flowers. In the next room, was a pile of telegrams from all parts of the world congratulating him upon his anniversary. The "Tiger" as usual, wore a Polou cap and gloves, and his birthday dinner consisted of the inevitable onion soups.

Discussing the world and life as he saw them, M. Clemenceau said:

"I take life as it comes. I don't want to leave it yet, but the question is how long it will stay with me.

"I am working hard. Work is the best thing to keep life interesting.

"Work is 'hasbeens,' helping us go through life. I am deeply touch ed by the homage paid me from different parts of the world in telegrams today. I appreciate es pecially those from the United

minutes as fullback.

St. Ignatius of San Francisco buried Nevada last Saturday to the tune of 19 to 0 and Price has declared that he will test all of his backs, which is just what the fans are waiting for.

Everyone is anxious to have a look at Charley Schmidt, transfer fullback from Modesto, who the sports writers say is a comer. Schmidt was on the injury list last week, with a chipped cheekbone sustained in scrummage, but will be in shape for Nevada.

Then there are letter-men who have yet to play this season. Red Gill, who starred against Washington last fall, is chafing from inactivity as are others. Bruno and Rice, who were members of last year's fast freshmen backfield, Charles Von Tagen, powerful halfback from Modesto State College, Harold Kaufman and F. Ribble and Harold Breakenridge, quarterbacks, will also see service.

Nibs Price is happily blest with four full backfields with which it is hard to discriminate. Never in the history of California football has there been such an abundance of good ball-toters and only once before—the day of the Wonder Teams, has the quality of men been excelled.

With this flock of galloping ghosts unleashed the Nevada game promises to bring back memories of the big scores of other days.

Memorial Park Gun To Arrive Today

Notice has been received that the five-inch slope gun secured for Memorial park by the Allied Council of War Veterans and the City Council, will arrive in Richmond today and will be mounted on the concrete base at the southwest corner of the park. Herbert Baker, local housemover, will be in charge of the transportation of the big gun which was secured by the veterans with transportation furnished by the city council.

Believe it or not—The per capita expenditures for all toilet preparations in the United States is only $1.25 per person.

This becomes significant only when compared with statistics in other countries. In France the outlay for cosmetic articles is $8 per person and $4 to $5 per person is the ratio prevalent in Germany and England.

That perfume making is an art, has been evident throughout history. Nevertheless, few women know anything about how their favorite scent is made, and perhaps if they did, they would be more discriminating. It is Mr. Lambert's contention that in the next few years we will learn the fascination of perfume and leap to the top of the aesthetic ladder.

Learn to your regret that there is no such thing as Lilac or Lily-of-the-Valley scents made from flowers. These are synthetic preparations.

Accused in Facisti Murders

ARRESTED IN what many turn out to be another Sacco-Vanzetti case, the two Italians above are being held by New York police accused of the murder of two other Italians, members of the Facisti, who were killed while on their way to parade on Memorial Day. It has been protested that the propagandists of Mussolini's Fascism and the opponents of Fascism have made the United States a cockpit in which to stage their battles on the subject of whether Fascism is all right or all wrong, resulting in bloodshed throughout the country.

Mass Meeting Of Citizens
Indorses Water Bond Issue

OAKLAND, Sept. 29.—Acquisition of a water distributing system, through purchase or construction, by the East Bay Municipal Utility District at the earliest possible date, in order that a definite move may be made toward reducing the tax burden to meet bond interest, last night received overwhelming endorsement of the first mass meeting held in behalf of the proposed $26,000,000 bond issue.

Several hundred persons gathered at the Hotel Oakland, representatives of civic and improvement organizations in the various cities making up the district, endorsed, with a single dissenting vote, a resolution urging the passage of the bond issue on November 1, which was offered by L. Bartlett, former mayor of Berkeley, and a one-time director of the district.

"It is the first time that I can remember when we can save money by spending it," said County Treasurer Fred Foss, paying high tribute to the business sagacity of the majority directors. "We should get behind them, vote the bonds and authorize them to make the best bargain they can get."

"Until the district is in a position to do business, we'll not get a price from the water company," said Bartlett, who, after presenting the resolution which was adopted, offered to become one of the 30 citizens willing to underwrite the campaign.

Statements like these were greeted with applause and it was apparent from the sentiment expressed that the General Campaign Committee, headed by Fred McCormick, who presided last night, will have no difficulty in lining up able campaign workers.

The Event Thousands Are Waiting For!

For Your Protection,
We Emphasize
These Facts—

The Sealy is the original and genuine tuftless mattress. The only mattress built by the patented Air Weave Process.

Sealy Cotton—pure, white, long virgin cotton, is combed through hair brushes. Unlike all other systems, the Sealy cotton comes to you unharmed—with its wonderful vitality unimpaired.

Like a swirling snow storm, the Sealy cotton is AIR-WOVEN, each fibre buoyed up by air and then dropped like snow-flakes to bottom of conformer. As each fibre drops it intertwines, locking with each other. That is why NO TUFTS are needed.

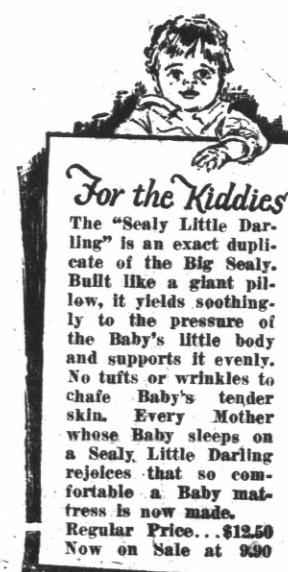

After a five-foot batt is formed, it is compressed to mattress thickness. This completes the interlocking process. The millions of cotton fibres, each a sturdy spring, will never separate, although not tied by tufts. This is true only of the Sealy Air Weave Process.

For the Kiddies
The "Sealy Little Darling" is an exact duplicate of the Big Sealy. Built like a giant pillow, it yields soothingly to the pressure of the Baby's little body and supports it evenly. No tufts or wrinkles to chafe Baby's tender skin. Every Mother whose Baby sleeps on a Sealy Little Darling rejoices that so comfortable a Baby mattress is now made. Budget System

By means of a budget system all expenses are determined upon a fixed income. A great many individuals are adopting the budget plan—it is nothing more or less than a systematic control of their expenses, which is a much better means than drifting along in a "HIT or MISS" fashion. A simple method is to set aside 10% or more of what you make and figure to live on the balance, and often then there may be some left to add to your 10% fund. Try the budget system for awhile; it may be beneficial.

Accused in Facisti Murders

ARRESTED IN what many turn out to be another Sacco-Vanzetti case, the two Italians above are being held by New York police accused of the murder of two other Italians, members of the Facisti, who were killed while on their way to parade on Memorial Day. It has been protested that the propagandists of Mussolini's Fascism and the opponents of Fascism have made the United States a cockpit in which to stage their battles on the subject of whether Fascism is all right or all wrong, resulting in bloodshed throughout the country.

Mass Meeting Of Citizens
Indorses Water Bond Issue

OAKLAND, Sept. 29.—Acquisition of a water distributing system, through purchase or construction, by the East Bay Municipal Utility District at the earliest possible date, in order that a definite move may be made toward reducing the tax burden to meet bond interest, last night received overwhelming endorsement of the first mass meeting held in behalf of the proposed $26,000,000 bond issue.

Several hundred persons gathered at the Hotel Oakland, representatives of civic and improvement organizations in the various cities making up the district, endorsed, with a single dissenting vote, a resolution urging the passage of the bond issue on November 1, which was offered by L. Bartlett, former mayor of Berkeley, and a one-time director of the district.

"It is the first time that I can remember when we can save money by spending it," said County Treasurer Fred Foss, paying high tribute to the business sagacity of the majority directors. "We should get behind them, vote the bonds and authorize them to make the best bargain they can get."

"Until the district is in a position to do business, we'll not get a price from the water company," said Bartlett, who, after presenting the resolution which was adopted, offered to become one of the 30 citizens willing to underwrite the campaign.

Statements like these were greeted with applause and it was apparent from the sentiment expressed that the General Campaign Committee, headed by Fred McCormick, who presided last night, will have no difficulty in lining up able campaign workers.
